and shoulder bode were broken, his nose half torn off, and his shoulders and side burned; the burne received, I suppose, by his trying to get out in front. Toerence was taken else where considerably injured; the blood spirted from his head as he struck the ground. By the time I struck the ground, I think no one was affer in the house; all were gone. Those who died inside of the hotel, left none of the pain of burns, as they died doubt.ess of suffocation before the fames reached them.

Mrs. Jonathan Jones is not dead, as has been stated, or was not at our latest accounts last evening. Her condition, however, was extremely critical and her most anxious friends do not think she can recover. Her husband received some stratches and contusions that may confine him to his room some days, but nothing of a serious nature.

The people at the Hospital, with the exception of Mrs. H. Hubbard and killin Hayes, who are regarded as being in a dangerous situation, seem to be getting along quite comfortably.

Four more bodies were taken out of the ruins yesterday, from among the bricks, ashes and other rubishs. From a letter found upon one it is assertained to be that of Henry H. Mosbetter, of Ræhester, N. Y., who has been reported among the missing. All four were horribly mutilated. Legs arms and heads were of, and in one case nothing was left bearing a trace of humanity, except a spinal column, with a few bleached bones lying around it.
